

Pirate's Wench

© Carole Etherton

There's a welcome in our tavern for all who sail the seas
But pirates are the gentlemen we prefer to please
We serve them rum and brandy then up go the maroons
Then we'll shiver their timbers and they'll double our doubloons
It's a grand life being a pirate's wench, that's the life for me
They're easy with their money for the woman on their knee

We all love Captain Morgan, a fine dressed buccaneer
He is the finest catch for all the wenches here
He brings us lace and velvet, then up go the maroons
Then he climbs into the crows nest and doubles our doubloons
It's a grand life being a pirate's wench, that's the life for me
They're easy with their money for the woman on their knee

My favourite is John Silver, a pirate of renown
He pillages and plunders the ships that serve the crown
He brings me gold and rubies then up go the maroons
Then hoists his jolly roger and doubles my doubloons
It's a grand life being a pirate's wench, that's the life for me
They're easy with their money for the woman on their knee

I'm not a lady of decision when I have to choose Between one or the other so neither man will lose
So they double up their plunder and up go the maroons
As one sails in and one sails out I'll double my doubloons
It's a grand life being a pirate's wench, that's the life for me
They're easy with their money for the woman on their knee

Avast says Johnny Silver, come along with me
And keep this pirate company upon the seven seas
So then we spliced the main-brace, and up went the maroons
Now we share a life of piracy, doubling our doubloons
It's a grand life being a pirate's wench, that's the life for me
They're easy with their money for the woman on their knee
